Dear Sir or Madam;

I would like to add my opinion and support of the proposed settlement.

Through out this trial, it has never been proven to me-a consumer-that I was harmed by Microsoft's predatory practices. I do believe that strong-arm business tactics were used, and as a result, competing businesses were harmed. But I believe it's probable this harm resulted from their failure to create and market superior products.

Greed has no limits once an attorney is involved; i.e., the 'tobacco settlement' of years past. How much did the consumer recover in those states? There is nothing complicated about right and wrong! Thank you for listening.
